For immediate release:

The Inkwell announces its acquisition of a Fuji Dart PlateRite
Computer-to-Plate Imaging System

The Fuji computer-to-plate system generates “processless” thermal printing plates, which are mounted directly on the press after imaging. No processing means elimination of processing chemicals, their associated costs and their impact on the environment. This not only meets our goal of being eco-friendly, but also saves time and money.

The Fuji Dart system claims to have the smallest environmental footprint in the industry.

The Inkwell, a family-owned print communications company located in central New Jersey, specializes in high quality commercial printing, direct mail/list management, fulfillment, and prepress services. For over 35 years The Inkwell has been partnering with its customers to provide total project management and exceptional service.
